

I am delighted to be a part of the High tea session at Delhi on the occasion of the 140th anniversary of our university, which also marks the year of stronger collaboration between India and Japan for promotion of Japanese universities in India. I hope that through our research ties and Todai's collaborations with universities in India prove to be a stepping stone towards stronger R&D and economic ties between the two countries through alumni of the university. I will strive towards this goal in mind through my research project'.
