

Yale MACMILLAN CENTER

Fox International Fellowship

What is the Fox International Fellowship?

- It is a graduate student exchange program between Yale and world-renowned partner universities.

What do Fox International Fellows do?

- Undertake independent research at Yale University in one of the designated fields for an academic year.
- Audit classes and attend workshops and conferences at Yale to become acquainted with the academics working in their field.
- Network with faculty, students, and a range of organizations to create new opportunities and important practical experiences.

For more information and details on the application process, visit foxfellowship.yale.edu.

Fox International Fellowship Program, Henry R. Luce Hall, Room 144, New Haven, CT 06520

The goal of the Fox International Fellowship is to enhance mutual understanding between the peoples of the United States and other countries by promoting international scholarly exchanges and collaborations among the next generation of leaders.

We seek applicants whose work has the potential to offer insight into the problems and challenges standing in the way of the world's peace and prosperity. The fellowship focuses on such critical fields as: international relations and global affairs, law, environmental policy, public health, social sciences, economics, political science, political theory, business and finance, management, and contemporary history. For more information and details on the application process, visit foxfellowship.yale.edu.

Yale MACMILLAN CENTER
Fox International Fellowship