Lecture

Trade war, global pandemic, Ukraine: What we know, and don't know, about the new political and economic order

Speaker

Bill Emmott

Ushioda Fellow, Tokyo College,
The University of Tokyo

Independent writer, lecturer, and consultant on international affairs. Former editor of The Economist (1993–2006). Author of best-seller Sun Also Sets: Limits to Japan's Economic Power (1989), which anticipated Japan's economic bubble collapse. Recent publications include Japan's Far More Female Future (2020), which argues that gender equality and workplace security will increase Japan's overall prosperity.

Recent years have seen a number of "radically uncertain" events, such as US-China trade war, the coronavirus pandemic, and Russia's invasion of Ukraine. This lecture seeks to identify how these events fit into conventional frameworks for explaining the world, how these events might have changed those frameworks, what elements remain unknown, and how we should respond in this age of uncertainty.
