

TOKYO COLLEGE

共に考える。未来のかたち Shaping a Shared Future Together

Lecture

How the Russo-Ukrainian War is Changing European International Order: The Perspective from Japan

Speaker

Guibourg DELAMOTTE

Senior Lecturer, Japanese Studies Department of the French Institute of Oriental Studies (Inalco); Visiting Associate Professor, Tokyo College, The University of Tokyo

Speaker

IWAMA Yoko

Professor, National Graduate Institute for Policy Studies (GRIPS)

The Russo-Ukrainian War is changing the structure of international order and security in Western Europe. Did it mend the EU's diplomatic and security divisions in Western Europe, or did it reaffirm them?

How is Japan's response to the war in Russia and Ukraine perceived in the West, and how will it affect Japan's future relations with Western nations?

2022. 7.29 [Fri.]

3:00 p.m.- 5:00 p.m. (2:30 p.m. Doors Open)

Facilitator

MINO Takashi

Deputy Director, Tokyo College, The University of Tokyo

Moderator

IKEUCHI Satoshi

Professor, Research Center for Advanced Science and Technology (RCAST), The University of Tokyo

In-Person Event

Venue

Koshiba Hall, Hongo Campus, The University of Tokyo

Language

Japanese (English simultaneous translation)

Contact

tokyo.college.event@tc.u-tokyo.ac.jp

80 seats
(first-come-first-served basis)

Pre-registration required

▶ Register now

